Moving With Autism - How to Plan Your Transition to a New Home				https://www.yourstoragefinder.com/moving-with-autism		If you have a loved one with autism, you know how important predictability and routines are. All of that goes out the window when you have to pack up your house and move. Whether it's around the corner or to a new country, relocating can be especially difficult for a family member who is on the autism spectrum. Although you can't eliminate all anxiety a move may cause, you can do many things to make the process easier on your loved ones and yourself.
My Autism Team				https://www.myautismteam.com/		MyAutismTeam is the only social network where you can truly connect, make real friendships, and share daily ups and downs in a judgment-free place. When you or a loved one are first diagnosed, it's not uncommon to feel alone and uncertain of where to find the best information and people that can help you now. We believe in making it easy to find the best people around you to help you get the answers you need, and to find support from people who can truly relate. The main currency on our site is trust – the more you share in posts and your stories, the more questions you ask and answer, the more your support will be valued by other members.
Sensory-Friendly Home Modifications for Autism and Sensory Processing Disorder				https://www.bigrentz.com/blog/sensory-friendly-home-modifications-autism-sensory-processing-disorder		When you have a child or family member on the autism spectrum, creating a safe and functional home environment is an important task. Autism can have a huge impact on an individual's development, lifestyle, and social connections. People on the spectrum can be particularly sensitive to lights, sounds, and other stimuli. Many crave order and routines to make sense of the world. Safety can be a concern for those who wander, are drawn to water, or are prone to head banging or self injury.
Sleep Junkie - Guide to Better Sleep for Kids with Autism				https://www.sleepjunkie.org/autism-and-sleep/		It can be difficult for children with autism and other special needs to fall asleep and stay asleep at night. Those lost hours of slumber not only take a toll on the children – who may be more irritable and prone to behavior problems – but also on their bleary-eyed parents. If you are struggling to help your child “power down” or relax at night, you are not alone.
